Understanding Active and Passive Voice

The active and passive voice are two fundamental grammatical structures used to construct sentences, each serving a unique purpose. In the active voice, the subject of the sentence performs the action expressed by the verb. Conversely, the passive voice emphasizes the action being done to the subject, often omitting the agent performing the action. This distinction affects the clarity, emphasis, and tone of the sentence.

Definition and Structure of Active Voice

In active voice sentences, the subject acts directly upon the object. The typical sentence structure follows a Subject-Verb-Object order, which makes the meaning straightforward and dynamic.

- Example: The teacher explains the lesson.
- Subject: The teacher
- Verb: explains

- Object: the lesson

Definition and Structure of Passive Voice

Passive voice sentences shift the focus from the doer to the receiver of the action. The object of the active sentence becomes the subject in the passive sentence, and the verb form changes to include a form of “to be” plus the past participle.

- Example: The lesson is explained by the teacher.
- Subject: The lesson
- Verb phrase: is explained
- Agent (optional): by the teacher
