Overview of AP World History Unit 2 Content

AP World History Unit 2 focuses on the classical era, a foundational period that shaped many of the political, cultural, and economic patterns in world history. This era roughly spans from 600 BCE to 600 CE and includes the rise and development of major empires and civilizations across Asia, Europe, and the Americas. The unit explores how these societies established complex political structures, expanded trade networks, and developed cultural and religious traditions that influenced subsequent historical periods.

Major Civilizations and Empires

Students study the Roman Empire, Han Dynasty China, Maurya and Gupta India, and various Mesoamerican and Andean cultures. Each civilization's governance, social systems, technological advancements, and cultural achievements are analyzed to understand their contributions and interactions with neighboring societies.

Global Interactions and Trade Networks

The unit also highlights the emergence of extensive trade routes such as the Silk Road, connecting East Asia with the Mediterranean and facilitating cultural exchange, economic growth, and the spread of ideas and religions like Buddhism, Christianity, and Confucianism.
